

Abstract: Ivan Drasov is one of the prominent comrades of Vasil Levski in Lovech. In his memoirs Ivan Drasov himself argues that he was a Lovech revolutionary committee's chairman. However many historical sources far more reliable than Ivan Drasov's memoirs provide that he was not a chairman but a secretary of the private revolutionary committee in Lovech. Except a secretary of the private revolutionary committee in Lovech Ivan Drasov was a secretary of the Bulgarian revolutionary central committee based in Lovech too. As a secretary, Ivan Drasov wrote letters on behalf of the two revolutionary committees in Lovech in 1871 and 1872. Some historians think that Ivan Drasov was also a treasurer of the Bulgarian revolutionary central committee in Lovech. However, there is no serious evidence to support this thesis so far.
